the field who didn't belong there. As he it out in roughing. It appears that the tip had gone around beforehand that it would be a soft thing for West Virginia there were four of the other side who fications were done on purpose. They swore at the West Virginia men who were put out for being guitters and I heard one of the players say in explanation, 'The officials are putting out our best men. You'll see they'll send others off.' He was right in that; we did send others off, but not for that reason. Then th miners got angry at us and I heard it said and you'll get you s.' We had to pass up some of the rough work in the closing minutes of play, but had we been at our ease we might well have sent the whole West Virginia team off. All the men played rough foot ball. "After the game Hackett and I walked through the crowd and started out o town. We took an automobile and rode thirty miles over into Pennsylvania to a place where we could get a trolley car that would take us to where we could get a train for New York. I wouldn't have wanted to stay in Morgantown, because it looked mighty bad. "There was one nice incident of the game. A W. and J. man made a touchdown, running away in back of the goal. A West Virginia man dashed around the other side and did his best to slam the W.
